Polarimeter to UNify the Corona and Heliosphere (PUNCH): Mission Status and First Light

C. E. DeForest, S. E. Gibson, and the Punch Team

Southwest Research Institute National Center for Atmospheric Research

`contact e-mail:` craig.deforest@swri.org

PUNCH comprises a constellation of four spacecraft, launched on 11-Mar-2025, to image the entire inner heliosphere and understand how the solar corona transitions to the solar wind. We will present mission structure and design, early results, status, and information on how to work with PUNCH.